OHIO'S

privately owned campgrounds
& RV Parks come in many sizes and personalities.

Whether you're an RV traveler, backpacker, or tent camper, you can find a property to fit every budget and activity. Some offer extensive amenities while others provide basic facilities for a more rustic camping experience. Water, electric, and sewer hookups for RVers are standard at most facilities. If you're not an RV owner, rental trailers and camping cabins are becoming increasingly available for those who desire extra camping comfort.

Many campgrounds are geared toward the family with wading pools, gem mines, playgrounds, fishing ponds, and planned crafts for children to enjoy. However, adults can get into the vacation spirit too with swimming pools, live entertainment, and organized activities such as bingo and shuffleboard.

Ohio's changing seasons offer opportunities for year-round camping fun. During both the busy summer or quieter off-season, there are campgrounds for vacationers and outdoor sports buffs alike. Whether it's to breathe the fresh air of spring, enjoy a round of golf, or view the spectacular autumn foliage, you can enjoy all of your favorite seasonal activities at Ohio's private campgrounds. Even snow skiers and snowmobilers will find campgrounds equipped to accommodate their wintry hobbies.

For retirees, seasonal camping has become an affordable option throughout Ohio. Many look forward to settling into a permanent camping unit parked at their favorite private campground. But a seasonal site also makes a great getaway for families of all ages seeking anything from a weekend escape to an entire summer's vacation.

When choosing a campground for your next family excursion, remember - there's something for everyone. Be sure to look for a campground that belongs to the Ohio Campground Owner's Association, whose members are committed to providing the most pleasurable camping experience imaginable with the latest and greatest innovations the camping industry has to offer.

5 signs that you need a vacation

1. You cook s'mores...in the microwave.
2. You are starting to enjoy sitting around a fake fireplace.
3. You can't remember the last time you finished reading a book.
4. Your camping gear is starting to grow spiderwebs.
5. You watch the Discovery Channel in a sleeping bag.

CENTRAL ATTRACTIONS

COOL OFF this summer at Zoombezi Bay,

central Ohio's premier waterpark. Its 22 acres of wet thrills feature 17 state-of-the-art water slides, including Python Plunge in which riders are blasted upstream before being shot into a 70-foot landing pool. Whip through the tunnels of Big Boa Falls before careening over a zero-gravity hill.

You'll find water fun for all ages. Katoomba Lagoon is a pool and playground designed just for little ones, while Croctail Creek is a relaxing lazy river for adults only. Teens will love everything in between. Visit www.zoombezibay.com to see all the park's attractions and a list of their special promotion days.

The intriguing Piatt Castles sit among the rolling hills near West Liberty in Logan County. The castles were built by the siblings of Judge Benjamin Piatt, who relocated to the area in the 1820s. Named Mac-A-Cheek and Mac-O-Chee, the unique structures look like they belong on a Scottish landscape.

Visitors are invited to take self-guided tours of the castles, which are now operated as family-owned museums. The rooms and halls are filled with 200 years of historical artifacts, photographs, and exhibits. The castle grounds can be rented for special events too. See www.piattcastles.org for more information.

The Ohio Historical Society networks with over 50 historic sites around the state in promoting Ohio's rich history. Their headquarters are located at the Ohio History Center in Columbus, where in addition to a research library filled with historical archives, visitors will also find an exhibit-filled museum.

Ohio history is on display from the prehistoric-era to the present. The museum offers special programs and events, and see Ohio Village — an 1860s reconstructed small town. Go to www.ohiohistory.org to learn more about this and many other Ohio historical attractions.

SOUTHWEST ATTRACTIONS

VISIT the historic city of Greenville, home to the 1795 Treaty of Greenville, which created the Northwest Territory and encouraged our nation's expansion to the west.

KitchenAid Experience is a must-stop in downtown Greenville. Shop in the KitchenAid retail store, where you'll find a completed line of gadgets related to the famous countertop mixer. Tour the mixer factory to see how they are built, and see the product's history at the KitchenAid Museum. Watch live cooking demonstrations, or sign up for a cooking class yourself!

Bear's Mill is a historic landmark on the outskirts of Greenville. It's one of Ohio's rare operating water-powered mills, and still grinds grain into flour today. Visit the Mill Gallery, featuring rotating displays of artwork and hand-made pottery. Shop at the Mill Market and take home gourmet food items, as well as flour and meals ground at the Mill.

Experience the life of wild west legend Annie Oakley, at the Annie Oakley Center at Garst Museum. See displays showing how her personal life conflicted greatly from the rough tomboy image portrayed by Hollywood. For more information about the Greenville area, go to www.visitdarkecounty.com.

Southwest Ohio is known across the Midwest as a premier antique hunting destination. One of the best locations to hunt treasures is in Waynesville, where visitors will discover over 2 dozen antique, collectible, and specialty shops.

Many will time their visit for the second full weekend in October. That's when Waynesville's annual Sauerkraut Festival takes place. In addition to fabulous German-themed foods, over 450 juried vendors from over 25 states make this one of the best craft events in the country.

Tour the Museum at the Friends Home, a restored 1905 boarding house operated today as a cultural center in Waynesville. The museum features 22 rooms of exhibits depicting early life in the community, and is located in the Quaker Historical District. Brave souls are invited to take a walking ghost tour — a guided stroll through what has been described as "the most haunted village in Ohio." Find more things to see and do in the area at www.waynesvilleohio.com.

Waynesville is known as
THE MOST HAUNTED VILLAGE IN OHIO!

Other Southwest Attractions include...

Cincinnati Zoo and Botanical Gardens, with a collection of wildlife from around the world that has earned the zoo a reputation as one of the best in the country. The new Horseshoe Casino in Cincinnati boasts over 2,000 slots and table games, and features a fine steak house as well as Jimmy Buffet's Margaritaville. You've never been grocery shopping until you've been to Jungle Jim's International Market in Fairfield, where you'll find an assortment of food and attractions that must be seen to be believed.

Major attractions in the Southwest are Kings Island, The Beach at Adventures Landing, and The National Museum of the United States Air Force.

SOUTHEAST ATTRACTIONS

WHEN one hears the name Bob Evans, one naturally thinks of the great chain of restaurants. But did you know the restaurant's founder raised his family in a farmhouse in Southeast Ohio? Near Rio Grande, the Bob Evans Homestead is now on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Homestead serves as a museum and historical center, and is the site of the very first Bob Evans Restaurant — still in operation today. In addition to learning the history of the company, visitors can take horseback and wagon rides, view the barnyard animals, and tour the 1800s-era Adamsville Village.

Don't miss the annual Bob Evans Farm Festival. For dates and more information, see www.BobEvans.com.

Tecumseh! Outdoor Drama has thrilled audiences for 40 years at the Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre in Chillicothe. Tecumseh was a legendary Shawnee leader who defended his Ohio countryside in the late 1700s.

His story is told each summer in this exciting drama, highlighted by dazzling battle scenes in a natural setting that includes beautiful native American music. Tecumseh! is widely regarded as the most successful outdoor drama in the country. Order your tickets at www.tecumsehdrama.com.

The Wayne National Forest is an outdoor lover's paradise, with rugged hills of hardwoods and pines, along with several lakes and streams. Over 300 miles of trails are available for hiking, ATV riding, mountain biking, and horseback riding. The wilderness is a popular hunting destination, and its lakes are a destination for fishermen as well.

Others enjoy the forest scenery while picnicking, bird watching, or taking an autumn drive through the spectacular foliage. Search the Internet for Wayne National Forest to download maps and view regulations.

Lorena Sternwheeler

Other Southeast Attractions include...

The Wilds, a 9,000 acre wildlife conservation center near Cumberland offering safari adventures where zebras, rhinos, giraffes, and more roam in their natural habitat. In Cambridge, watch the story of Jesus Christ unfold at The Living Word Outdoor Drama, considered the country's most authentic recreation of Old Jerusalem. Launch your vessel on the spectacular Ohio River and enjoy waterskiing, fishing, or a leisurely boat ride.

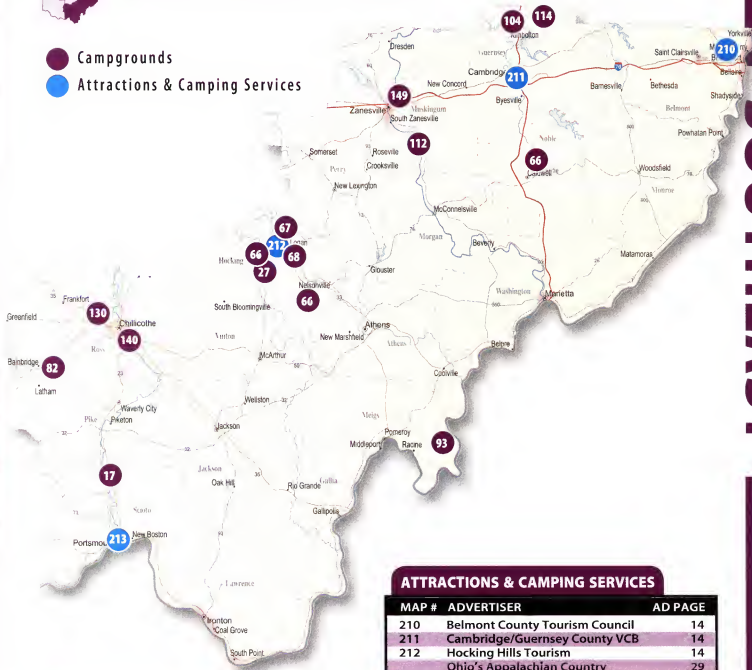

Other major attractions in the Southeast include Hocking Hills, Longaberger Baskets, and Lorena Sternwheeler.

Cabin Rentals Rising in Popularity

In response to customer demand, more and more campgrounds are adding cabins to their overnight accommodations. Campground cabin rentals can best be described as something between tent camping and staying at a hotel.

However there is one huge benefit to vacationers who choose a campground cabin as opposed to a private cabin or hotel room. Staying at a campground allows them access to all the exciting amenities the campground has to offer — from swimming pools and fishing ponds, to game rooms, planned activities, and more!

Best of all, you'll find cabins come in all shapes and sizes to fit any budget and comfort level. For smaller parties who still desire a rustic experience, there are simple camping cabins with bunks for sleeping and little else. They're as close to tent camping as one can get, without having to bring a tent.

Other cabins offer a step up, with a bedroom or two for small families. Some will offer bathrooms, a small living area, and maybe a grill and dining table. More deluxe cabins may have their own small kitchen, television, air-conditioning, and heat.

Looking for a more luxurious experience? You'll find cabins built to accommodate multiple families or large groups of friends. They might have multiple bedrooms and baths, a full kitchen, indoor fireplace, and maybe a deck with a hot tub.

There's another great benefit to campground cabins. It allows novices to camping the chance to sample the campground lifestyle, without having to invest in lots of equipment. Depending on the type of cabin you choose, you may need to bring as little as food, clothes, and personal items.

So do some research. Find out what type of cabins and amenities are available at your favorite campground, and make a reservation today. But book early! With their rise in popularity, cabin rentals are going quickly.

getting started in camping

Are you a NEWBIE to camping?

Or maybe you went camping as a kid, and are interested in getting back into it.

There is no better time than the present to enjoy the world of camping – especially if you have young children. Studies show that half of all current campers experienced their first camping trip before they reached the age of seven. Introducing kids to camping at a younger age is vital to their enjoyment of the activity throughout life.

Why take up camping? If you have young children, they'll be motivated to try it simply because it's fun in the outdoors. Whether or not you've started a family, many young adults find camping is a great way to manage stress. Exercise is another motivator, as over 80% of campers do so in combination with other outdoor activities, such as hiking, fishing, boating, or bicycling.

Other than the fact that camping is an enjoyable family-oriented outdoor activity, another big reason it's so popular is because it's an affordable vacation. One can get started in camping with a minimal investment.

Tent camping is the most common form for newbies and veterans alike. Tents come in all shapes and sizes, and bargains can be easily found whether you're looking for a 2-person pop-up, or a multiple room tent for a large group or family. For milder climates, there's no need to purchase expensive sleeping bags when basic models will work just fine. Or just bring sheets and comforters from home. A good air mattress or cot will go a long way for your sleeping comfort.

Equipment wise, most camping trips don't require anything fancy. Collapsible chairs are nice, or you can even sit on a sturdy cooler – a necessity for keeping food and beverages cold. Gas camp stoves are pretty affordable, but certainly not mandatory. Build a fire with charcoal or wood in your site's fire ring, and cook hotdogs and s'mores over the hot coals. A cast iron skillet, a pot to boil water for coffee, and a few kitchen utensils can probably get you by.

Most other things needed for a beginner's camping trip you likely already own – flashlights, pillows, towels and wash clothes, dishes, games, etc. And anything you don't have can be easily acquired at a reasonable price if you plan ahead. Watch for sale ads in the newspaper, peruse garage sales, and even auctions are a great source for picking up camping equipment for next to nothing.

Spending the weekend at a nearby campground is a great introduction to camping. Soon you'll be traveling across the state for weeklong camping trips. Before you know it, you'll be retired and spending entire summers on a seasonal site.

So jump on the camping bandwagon today, and you'll quickly see why 40 million Americans already enjoy the most popular form of outdoor recreation.

A Seasonal Site Can Be Just What You Need

So you're thinking about joining the pool of seasonal campers. If you're still part of the working world, seasonal camping can be a great way to quickly get away to unwind for several weekends throughout the summer. And for retirees, it can be your season-long home after spending winters in a warmer southern climate.

But before taking the leap, here are some things you may want to consider before making your decision.

Figure out what type of campground is best for you. Are you looking for a family oriented park that caters to young parents with kids, or would you prefer quieter park geared more toward retirees?

What amenities are important to you? Perhaps you'd like a golf course or fishing lake just down the road. Maybe you want a swimming pool or restaurant on-site. Are there attractions nearby? Do the planned activities fit your interests?

How far do you want to drive? Set a maximum distance from home that you're comfortable driving several times during the camping season. You'll likely want someplace close, but far enough to feel like you're getting away.

Ask about site amenities such as electric and sewer. Do they allow you to build decks, set up a storage shed, or use golf carts? Read the campground rules, especially their policy on pets if you plan to bring your dog.

Compare seasonal rates and what services they may include. Walk around the campground. Talk to other seasonal campers and find out what they like or dislike about the park. Get a feel for the cleanliness and maintenance of the facilities.

Above all — take your time in making a decision by doing your homework and keeping an open mind. By doing so, you can be sure to find a campground that is just right for you.
